COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

For the past two weeks the Assessors have been working on the 1957 assessment. At this time it is too early to know as to the exact amount of the 1957 tax rate. Also it is not known at present as to just when the tax bills will be ready for mailing.

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the Northwest Bethel road. A large number of culverts were required for this project, the most of which are now installed, so that from now on the full crew may be used for hauling gravel.

Tuesday evening it was my pleasure to sit in with the local committee that was appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to seek new industry. A lot of time has been spent by this group in preparing a brochure to be presented to the Department of Economic Development at Augusta. At the Tuesday evening meeting Mrs Alma Young was appointed to write publicity articles on the work of the committee therefore I will not go into detail of the committee's work. Every citizen should support this group for it is going to take a lot of time, talent, and work to accomplish the committee's objective. It was also the pleasure of the Committee to have several of the NTL group sit in on the evening's discussion.

A date to keep in mind—Sept. 9, 1957. On this date there will be a special election to vote on two referendum questions and three proposed amendments to the constitution. More will be written about the questions to be voted on prior to the date of the election.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

KILLING CONTINUES DUTCH ELM DISEASE

Inroads on Maine's elms by the Dutch elm disease are continuing. Initial scouting work for 1957 by the Maine Forest Service shows additional elms succumbing in York County and in the Orono-Milford area. Concerted scouting by Forestry Department men will start this week. Southern Maine residents will see these men examining trees and can help by reporting any suspected trees to them or to the Division of Entomology of the Maine Forestry Department. Branch samples of suspected elms can be sent to the Forestry Department for examination.

Mid-July through August is the best time to examine trees for disease symptoms. Foliage on diseased trees yellow and brown as the host of spores combined with clogging of sap-conducting vessels by the fungus, begins to kill them. Foliage on single branches or extensive parts of diseased elms will thence wilt or appear sparse.

Community effort is needed to insure prompt finding and removal of diseased trees plus burning of bark tissues from such trees. Bark-beetles which spread the disease breed in elm bark.

Community officials are urgently advised to carry on a coordinated program of destruction of all recently cut or dying elm material to eliminate bark beetles within control areas. Individuals should cooperate with their municipal officials in elm protection programs. No community can afford to ignore the disease. Protection costs are less than the cost of removing the hazards caused by dead elms to persons and property. The sooner preventive measures are started, the more effective and cheaper the effort. Spraying with DDT to kill bark beetles is a good additional practice after a community becomes infested but should be applied only in the spring before elm buds open.

Assistance and advice in establishing programs are available from the Maine Forest Service.

HISTORY OF THE WEST PARIS FINNISH CHURCH

A little over 50 years ago the first group of Finnish people came and settled in this area. When they first came to this country, they were strangers to its language as well as its ways. But through the years of their residence here, they have adjusted themselves and proven to be a benefit to the surrounding communities.

Since the people had received a religious background in Finland, visiting ministers from Massachusetts found that the people came willingly to the Finnish services. Soon after that a Finnish church was started in West Paris with the aid of the Maine Congregational Conference. Rev Lauri Mielinen was the founding pastor. Rev Charles Harbutt, the Superintendent of the Congregational Conference, took a great interest in the work. A church building was bought and regular services started. In 1915, a great spiritual revival made a powerful impact on the lives of the Finnish community. Rev A Raita was pastor at the time. The church became the people's main interest.

From the time of the founding of the church to 1940 the Congregational Conference gave aid to the church, but since 1940, the church has been completely self-supporting. Quite a few of its young people have become active members in other Finnish churches, as well as in English speaking churches. At present our church supports its own foreign missionary in northern India. All the different phases of the work used to be conducted in Finnish, but now Sunday School, Young People's, Christian Fellowship (young adults), and Daily Vacation Bible School are conducted in English.

Rev Felix R Mayblom, the present pastor, has been ministering in the West Paris Finnish Congregational Church since 1938.

As we celebrated our fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the church on July 29, 1957, we do not only look back with thankfulness on the past blessings of God. We look forward to a greater spiritual prosperity than the church has as yet experienced.

Charter members present at the anniversary services were: John Pulkkinen, Mrs Martha Heikkinen, Mrs Lydia Kyllonen, Mrs Annie Immonen, Mrs Cary Kilponen, Mrs Katri Mikkonen, Mrs Annie Haverinen, Mrs Anne Pulkkinen, Carl Pelvinen, Antti Pliainen, and Rev Felix Mayblom. The guest speakers were Rev Eino Hamalainen of Massachusetts and Rev Karl Jolin of Connecticut. There was special music by the choir. A Fellowship Dinner was served at noon.

ACROSS the DESK

ideas from other editors

From the Granite State News, Wolfeboro, N. H.: From time to time we hear folks moaning about the high cost of various types of automobile insurance.

The answer is obvious. Collision is so high because when a driver dents one of those new cars a major repair bill is indicated. Time was in the days of the famous old Model T's and A's, the fine functional Chevs, the good rugged Dodges and old solid Buicks, it was possible to replace a fender, a bumper, or a windshield without major financing. If a fender was crushed, why a fender was crushed, and that was that. Now when a fender receives a major damage, a good portion of the side of the car has to come too, in order to be replaced. The bumper has given way to a complex grille. A headlight is no longer a simple headlight but is sunk into the fender or mudguard, requiring a major operation for replacement, along with the fender.

The same holds true of bodily injury. Ever since a jury awarded a young man better than ninety thousand dollars for loss of a leg, when his motorcycle was in contact with a car, no thinking person who owns more than a ramp and a hen coop dares go aboard without the maximum coverage.

But basically we set our own insurance rates. When a member of a jury votes a big award, saying to himself "The insurance company will pay for this" what he is really saying is "A little bit of this will come out of my own pait next year." If the rates do not go up in proportion to the awards the insurance companies go out of business. It is an old banking practice that if you check more out of your account than you deposit, you get an overdraft, protested checks and activity stops.

In essence, the public sets its own rate for all types of insurance, public liability, property damage, collision, fire and theft.

From The Catskill Mountain Star, Saugerties, N. Y.: In the course of an average married life, a wife spends her time as follows:

Dishwashing, 10,000 hours
Care of house, 13,500 hours
Marketing, 4,500 hours
Washing, ironing, mending, caring for clothes 12,000 hours
Caring for members of the family, 10,025 hours

In addition, an electronic brain has computed that the average married woman walks 300 miles a year around the house; washes 25,200 dishes a year; and still finds time to look her best when hubby comes home from work.

Economic Highlights . . . . .

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

A rising population and improving living standards automatically broaden the market for food and other farm products. Even so, it is believed that the productive capacity of American agriculture will outrun food consumption for many years to come—which means that we will continue to have a surplus problem unless new and different kinds of markets are found and developed. That is why much attention is now being given to the possibilities of increased use of agricultural products by industry.

The 85th Congress established a bipartisan commission to examine the matter. In carrying out its assignment, the commission obtained the assistance of 185 of the country's outstanding leaders in agriculture, industry and science. Its report has now been made—and it is an exceedingly interesting one.

The question the commission had to deal with is this: "Can the economy develop profitable industrial markets capable of absorbing enough of the excess farm production to minimize, possibly, even to eliminate, the need for costly restrictions, supports, and surplus-disposal operations?" The commission found that "the answer is an emphatic Yes, provided the necessary steps are taken to make possible and encourage such a development."

There are four main needs. The first is a sufficiently sharp stress—now lacking—of the importance, the possibilities, and the urgency of the industrial utilization approach to farm surplus problems. The second is a greatly expanded program of both fundamental and applied research—a program which would not be confined to the laboratory but, in promising instances, would go through the development stages of pilot-plant experiment and trial commercialization. The third is to ensure, through fellowships, scholarships, grants and other means that much more scientific talent is trained for and channeled into this neglected field. The fourth is to provide, when necessary, suitable financial incentives during a temporary trial or development period. The initial step, the commission states, is sound legislative action by Congress.

The commission emphasizes that, by comparison with industry, agricultural research is in the doldrums. Industry is currently investing at least $3 billion a year—three per cent of gross sales—in research, and the result is a constant flood of new and improved products. Agriculture spends not more than $375 million a year on research—about one per cent of gross sales—and most of this goes to improve and increase production, rather than for utilization research. Consequently, the commission says "agriculture has been researched out of a good part of its natural markets" through the increasing use of detergents, synthetic fabrics, leather substitutes and so on.

The commission proposes that a five-member non-partisan Agricultural Research and Industrial Board be created by Congress, or alternatively, that responsibility for the program be placed in the Department of Agriculture, under a director with Assistant Secretary rank. And it makes another important suggestion—that the program be undertaken in a way that will add as little as possible to the structure of government."

to circulate petitions requesting referendum on the $1,000,000 in registration and drivers' license fees which are unjust and unnecessary.

UNJUST because the Maine family car and small truck owner (under 26,000 pounds) is the most heavily taxed in the nation, and highway taxes are not equitably levied.

UNNECESSARY because an estimated $1,500,000 Highway surplus on June 30th is available to pay the $99,000 interest on highway bonds in 1958. The 1959 Legislature can levy an equitable tax based upon a study to be made by the Highway Commission.

This referendum affects in no way the approval of the Highway Bond Issue at the coming (September) referendum.

The sixty-third and sixty-fourth performances of "The Old Peabody Pew" by Kate Douglas Wiggin will be presented Friday evening, Aug. 9, at 8 o'clock and on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Tory Hill Church, Buxton Lower Corner, Maine.

The first performance of the play was given in August 1913 in this church, in which the scene of the story was laid. The cast this year as always are members of the Dorcas Society of Hollis and Buxton.

On Saturday afternoon, the Annual fair of the Dorcas Society will be held on the church lawn from 1 to 5 o'clock. Fancy work, home cooked food and other articles will be on sale.

INSTRUMENT OF MONOPOLY

It is said that "The function of the union shop is to furnish the element of control which is essential to complete monopoly."

That is undeniable. The worker's wages and conditions are determined by the union. So is the amount and quality of work he may do. He must strike if the union tells him to. He must abide by any number of rigid rules, even though he may not agree with them.

If a worker fails to obey the union, he loses his membership—and with it his job.

Here, in very brief summary, is why sentiment is growing for right to work laws, which guarantee everyone the right to join or not to join a union, as they voluntarily choose, without dictation from either the employer or the union. If that isn't basic to our boasted free nation, nothing is.

St. John, Kan., News: "Not only is conservation of soil mandatory today—but so is re-building of the soil. We have dissipated away this priceless heritage to the point that there isn't enough left to permit us the luxury of our past wasteful ways."

"There are very few pure Hawaiians left," he said. "There is no minority group. We can see things from far different angles than most people."

Father Linscott said that the Missionary District of Hawaii was about the same size as Maine and is presided over by Bishop Harry F Kennedy. There are 43 missions and Parishes.—Portland Press Herald.

MOLLYOCKETT DAY A REAL FINANCIAL SUCCESS!

A meeting of the general fund-raising committee of the Bethel Health and Service Council was held Monday evening to review the events of Mollyockett Day and to report the profits from each activity. Many suggestions were made for improving the activities for another year even though it was readily agreed by all that this year's affair was much better and more fun than during the past year or two. It may now be said that Bethel's first official Mollyockett Day (successor to our annual Bazaar Day) was a real financial success and promises to grow in size and financial returns in the years to come if the enthusiasm of our people continues to support this worthy occasion. Even the weather cooperated and approximately $1,000! ($978 and more to come) was netted. A special meeting of the general Health and Service Council will be called soon to officially vote the allocation of these new funds to the emergency fund and for general use.

It would be almost impossible to individually thank every person who gave long hours of effort and time to make Mollyockett Day a winner; but at the risk of overlooking a few it should be noted that we owe special thanks to Miss Eva Bean and Rev Clifford Laws for being efficient co-chairmen and for the hours they gave to make the day a success; to Mrs Richard Young for the inspiration of renaming the Bazaar to Mollyockett Day; to Mrs John Lanni and her committee for her efforts in producing the Princess' crown; the unique signs and the general decor of the booths.

To Guy Butler goes thanks for arranging to have Maine millionth visitor, Jean Caillouet of Washington, D. C., here to crown our Princess and for selecting the judges for the parade from among Bethel Inn guests; to our judges, Mrs Harry Allen of New York City, Judge Veasey of Tulsa, Okla., and Charles Young of Flushing, L. I., N. Y. for their selection of parade winners; to Mrs Richard Waldron for convincing the Brown Company band to come for our parade and concert; to Jerry Smith and Lee Carroll for their work with the public address system; to Roy Barker and Blake MacKay for their job wiring the Common and handling electrical problems; to Grafton Lumber, Chadbourne Lumber, Dick Davis, Ralph Kimball and Ernest Blake for their gifts of lumber and slabs; to Hanover Dowel for help with trucking; to Harold Rolfe, Rollie Glines and Clifford Laws and their construction crews for the job of booth construction and demolition; To Mrs Rodney Eames and Mrs Vernon Brown for their effort in organizing the parade; to Bert Grover and his law enforcement team for their safety and traffic control; to Miss Alice Capen for the lovely tea; to Mrs Kimball Ames for providing the space for the flower show and to Mrs John Tebbets for directing the display; to Leslie Davis for contributing four excellent benches which can be used for years, and to the Lucky 15 4-H girls for their spontaneous offer to clean up the Common after that project bogged down in the aftermath of activities.

No expression of thanks could be complete without hearty thanks to Mr and Mrs Hugh Thurston for their continued dedication to preparing and cooking the bean-hole beans. And last a sincere thanks to each and every organization that contributed their time, material, and effort to making Mollyockett Day worthwhile.

Following is the list of organizations that actively supported the cause by sponsoring booths: The Chamber of Commerce, Alder River Grange, Bear River Grange and Pleasant Valley Grange sponsored the auction, Stuart Martin was auctioneer without pay and Tom Brown served as cashier; the American Legion sponsored the beano games and the Legion Auxiliary sponsored the fancy work booth; the Eastern Star had the milk bar booth; the Rebekahs and Gould Alumni had the home cooked food booth; the Extension Service staffed the coffee and doughnut booth; the Health Council and the Heart Foundation had a health information booth; Mount Abram Fish and Game and the Conservation Service sponsored the wildlife and conservation booth; the Lions Club manned the raffle booth; the pitch-til-you-win booth was handled by the Eleanor Gordon Guild; the hot dog booth by the Alder River Grange; the Home Improvement and Weight booth by the University of Maine Extension; cold drinks booth by the Five Town Teachers and the younger Gould Alumni; the Ladies Club, WSCS, East Bethel Extension and Bethel Day Extension sponsored the candy booth; Ekco Products of Locke Mills sponsored the wood products booth; the pony ring by the Rebekahs; the Papoose Reservation by the PTA; the rocking horse (made by Clifford Laws) was raffled at the NTL booth; the Bethel Gun Club had the shooting gallery; Viele Morrissett of Norway loaned the merry-go-round; Spec Guerney arranged the ball game; and the Congregational Women's Fellowship and the Men's Brotherhood of the Methodist Church did a terrific job of putting on the baked bean supper.

The following firms and individuals made contributions to Mollyockett Day: Bethel Spa, Martha's Grille, Cotton's Restaurant, Harvey's Restaurant, Riverside Dairy, Roscoe Swain, Hood's, Bennett's Garage, Bucky's Shell Station, A & P, Bryant's Market, Sealtest Inc., Chapin's Shell Station, Bosserman's Pharmacy, Bethel Savings Bank, Shaw's Market, Gallant's Filling Station, Ruth Carver Ames, Brooks Hardware, Brown's Variety Store, Shoe Rack, Joe Perry's Tydol Station, Specialty Shop, Casco Bank & Trust Co., Runnels Machine Shop, Head's General Store, Bob Lowe, Bob Billings' Sport Shop, Carter Equipment Co., Newton's Antiques, Florice Paul, Top Hat, and Jack Matheson.

Thank you again one and all—workers, sponsors and visitors—for making our Mollyockett Day the success it was.

Conservation Farming In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston

H Warren Abbott of North Paris has made over a wet area in his orchard into a source of spray water.

Warren has been bothered by side-hill springs which have kept the ground wet and made spraying very difficult. The Soil Conservation Service was called in to plan a tile drain system. Warren felt that this large amount of spring water that had been giving him much trouble could be used as a source of spray water. The tile line was installed with a large cement tank, 8 feet by 8 feet by 3 feet deep near the lower end. This tank has a capacity of about 1400 gallons of water.

The water picked up by the tile line will now flow into the tank and the overflow will continue through more tile to a brook. A 2 inch line will be used to fill his spray tank. The water tank is located at the upper edge of the orchard so that Warren will be going down hill with his spray water.

He received a nice letter in reply and also a quantity of tickets to a game on Saturday, Sept. 14. Cleveland is in for a single game. Here's hoping we have a good day and will see you on the bus.

Twins Split a Doubleheader with Farmington

Our team traveled to Farmington last Sunday and won the first game 11 to 4 and lost the second, six-inning game 4 to 5. BY JOHN and JANE STRICKLAND

THIS doesn't exactly solve a problem for Mrs. Ellis Hallerton, 1838 Lyles Street, Amarillo, Texas, but it does point the way followed by the people of a country to establish confidence in the minds of the people of the rest of the world, without which many problems can result.

Mrs. Hallerton made a trip all the way from Texas to England to purchase silver which she had been told by a friend was selling at bargain prices, that is, second-hand silver. Mrs. Hallerton knew that being second-hand in no way detracted from the value of the silver, so she made her purchases, one of which was a silver tea service for her daughter in New York City.

The goods were shipped direct to the daughter as a Christmas present, and Mrs. Hallerton thought the transaction ended there.

But it didn't!

Among her daughter's Christmas cards that year was an unusual one bearing an English postmark and expressing hope that the daughter would enjoy the gift and giving her some information about the hallmarks, (the English guarantee) what they represented in period of time, manufacturer, where and when it was made. On a separate slip of paper was this information:

"In purchasing silver in England the buyer can verify his having been dealt with honestly by taking his purchase to an assayist.

"The assayist examines the silver if he finds the purchaser had been cheated, it is taken from him, smashed to pieces and returned to the seller who will be obliged to return the purchase price."

The next Christmas there was another lovely Christmas card from the salesman.

The following summer Mrs. Hallerton's daughter accompanied a friend to England, who also wanted to purchase silver. Where do you think they headed for? Yes, that's just where they went, and to no other silversmiths in London.
